CONGRESS TO GET ATOMIC WAR WARNING

Tornadoes Kill 38, Injure More Than 300

TWO VILLAGES ARE LEVELED BY 'TWISTERS'

Arkansas, Oklahoma Towns In Path Of Storms; Rural Areas Hit

By International News Service

Two tornadoes which struck the south central states of Arkansas and Oklahoma left in the wake today at least 38 dead and more than 300 injured.

The small farming community of Union, Ark., and Leedey, Okla., were in the direct path of the twisters and suffered heavy casualties and damage.

Union, a village of about 400 inhabitants, was practically razed by the second of the two tornadoes, which ripped the town yesterday afternoon.

Almost every building in the community was damaged or destroyed. Thirty-two persons were killed and nearly 300 injured.

Air Travel Said 8 Times As Dangerous As Rail

WASHINGTON, June 2 — Secretary of Commerce Harriman told Congress today that air travel is eight times as dangerous as railroad or bus travel.

He predicted the hazard will increase unless improved safety devices are installed.

Harriman made the statement before a Senate appropriations

SEATED IN A BIG CHAIR in his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., little Jeffrey Freeman, 2, points to a wedding picture of his mother, Mrs. Leo Freeman who, along with his father, died in the crash of the United Air Lines DC-4 at LaGuardia Field, N. Y. Forty other persons lost their lives in the accident which occurred during the takeoff.

THE RED CROSS, state national guard, and U. S. Army authorities set up emergency facilities to care for the injured and homeless.

The first twister, which struck the tiny town of Leedey Saturday, killed six persons and injured 12.

Three quarters of the town was demolished. The tornado blew southeast from Higgins, Tex., where heavy casualties were suffered in the April 9 twister in which almost 200 persons were killed in Oklahoma and Texas.

JACK MUMAW JR. WINS BABY OF MONTH HONORS

WASHINGTON, June 2 — Secretary of Commerce Harriman subcommittee as he protested the 33 per cent cut the house made in the 287-million-dollar commerce department request.

He declared that the 70-million-dollar slash in civil aeronautics administration funds will "more than cut in half" CAA's program of installing new safety devices.

HARRIMAN reminded the committee that both House and Senate commerce committees have been concerned about air crashes and recommended installation of new safety devices as rapidly as they could be produced.

He cited the House appropriation committee's report, which said:

"Air accidents will only be eliminated, it seems to the committee, when people stop flying."

The commerce secretary declared:

"While it is true that air accidents cannot be entirely eliminated, the important consideration is that air accidents can be reduced and air service improved by installation of new and proven devices."

"Commercial air travel is still eight times as dangerous as railroad or bus travel."

"Furthermore, with the increase in traffic, larger planes and higher speeds, air accidents are likely to increase unless improved facilities are installed."

In recognition of being Circleville's first June baby, Jack Wesley Mumaw, Jr., will be showered with gifts from Circleville merchants and institutions, and the parents will also be the recipients of gifts.

The baby will receive a baby blanket from the C. J. Schneider furniture store, one quart of milk daily for two weeks from the Blue Ribbon dairy, a $1 savings account from the Circleville Savings and Banking company, $1 worth of merchandise from the infants' department of the W. T. Grant company, and $1 worth of merchandise from the G. C. Murphy company.

Parents of Jack Wesley Jr. will be the recipients of a floral tribute from Brehmer's, one carton of six 60-watt lamps from Ohio Electric company, and a three-month subscription from the Circleville Herald.

Although the house has passed a resolution calling for the end of working sessions this Friday, there appears to be far too much work remaining to meet that deadline.

As a result, the solons are expected to put into effect the traditional and almost childish practice of covering the clocks and calendars in the chambers and pretending that it will remain June 6 until the session is over.

It was learned that the house clerk has ordered cloth covers made for the two house clocks.

Only two of six must measures have cleared both houses — the soldier bonus and the Daniels-Cramer school bill — and conference committees are expected to be necessary to work out house-senate differences on both.

Five dresses stolen from vacant residence

Theft of five dresses in a burglary of the home of the late Mrs. Mildred Clingan at 385 Walnut street was discovered Monday by William Piper who noticed police.

The house has been closed since the death of Mrs. Clingan awaiting settlement of her estate.

Entrance was gained by smashing a window glass. The dwelling was ransacked.

TWO MEN KILLED NINE HURT IN DYNAMITE PLANT

Explosion Near New Castle, Pennsylvania, Heard In 10-Mile Area

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 2 — Two men were reported killed and nine others were injured today when twin explosions ripped Cyanamid and Chemical Corp. works six miles west of New

New Castle police identified the victims as Merle Craven, 55, and Robert Downing, 38, both of New Castle. Company officials said the two men were at work on the same mixing plane in which the initial blast occurred.

Those hurt, according to police, were employed outside the building or in a neighboring mixing plant.

Seven of the injured, including one woman identified as Iona Mayberry, were taken to Jameson general hospital.

Two of the injured — Leo Delfosse, 40, and Theodore Galanski — were taken to New Castle hospital where they were reported in critical condition.

Company officials said the blasts occurred four minutes apart. The gelatin mixing building in which the initial explosion let go was demolished. The adjoining structure was badly damaged.

A few minutes after the blasts the two buildings all available ambulances and police from New Castle were rushed to the powder plant.

The explosion broke windows in New Castle and police said the blast was heard in a 10-mile area.

WIFE USE BARE HANDS TO FREE BURIED HUSBAND

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Richard M. Peck, Cleveland, was reported recovering rapidly today following rescue by his wife after he had been buried in a 10-foot sewer ditch.

Peck, 28, yesterday was digging a channel to permit excess rain water to drain from the ditch, located on the site of their new home in suburban Parma.

His wife, Mary, 25, was seated in an automobile nearby when she heard a muffled cry. "Some premonition," she said, moved her to investigate.

When she reached the ditch, her husband was not in sight. However, she heard him cry faintly, "Mary, please get me out of here!"

The young wife jumped into the ditch and began clawing frantically with her hands. She soon reached her husband's head, permitting him to breathe until rescuers, attracted by Mrs. Peck's cries, arrived.

Parma police said a miscalculation on the part of Mrs. Peck when she started digging would have proved fatal to her husband.

Although the house has passed a resolution calling for the end of working sessions this Friday, there appears to be far too much work remaining to meet that deadline.

As a result, the solons are expected to put into effect the traditional and almost childish practice of covering the clocks and calendars in the chambers and pretending that it will remain June 6 until the session is over.

It was learned that the house clerk has ordered cloth covers made for the two house clocks.

NO LONG DRY PERIOD SEEN BY WEATHER MEN

June Starts With Rain After One Of Wettest Mays In Ohio Records

By International News Service

Most of the Ohio farmland was a sea of mud again today as the result of heavy rainfall over the state since early Sunday.

Weather bureau forecasters said that the intermittent rain would continue falling through late today, with a letup through tomorrow. However, there was no extended dry period in sight at this time.

Yesterday, the first of June, gave many places from 40 to 50 per cent of their normal rainfall for the month. Cleveland had 1.37 inches, compared with the June normal of 3.12 inches. Akron had 1.49, Cincinnati 1.28, Toledo 1.26, and Youngstown 1.11 inches.

ADVISORY BOARD ON TRAINING REPORT READY

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. NOAH WARNER

Mrs. Flora Ellen Warner, 88, widow of Noah A. Warner and a life-long resident of Pickaway county, died unexpectedly Sunday morning in her home at 302 East Main street.

The action was interpreted as a slap at the ousting of Premier Ferenc Nagy and the installation of a Community-friendly government.

Some time ago the United States authorized surplus property credits of 30 million dollars to Hungary. Fifteen millions have been used and it is the balance of 15 millions which has been suspended.

In a second move obviously aimed at combatting Communist activities, Secretary of State Marshall issued a friendly and laudatory statement on Italian Prime Minister Gasperi, head of the newly reformed and non-Communist cabinet.

Survivors are a son, Earl Warner, Detroit, Mich.; three grandchildren. Mrs. Sampsom J. Smith, Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Mrs. James O. Sage, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; and Mrs. Glenn Robinson II, Detroit, Mich.; and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the residence. The Rev. Clarence Swearingen will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery under the direction of the Mader funeral home. Friends may call at the residence.

WILLIAM CURRY

William Christian Curry died unexpectedly as he prepared for bed Sunday at 10:30 p. m. in the home of his daughter Mrs. Harley Rhinesmith, Madison township.

He was born August 20, 1868 in Fairfield county. His wife Marilla C. Barch Curry predeceased him in death 8 years ago. He was the son of John Curry and Lida Miller Curry.

He leaves three sons, William C., Groveport; John F. and George H., Ashville, and three daughters Mrs. Martha Rhinesmith, Madison township; Mrs. Gladys Shannon, Groveport; and Mrs. Anna Shoemaker, Columbus; one stepson, Edward C. Haffey, Lockbourne, and one brother George Curry, New Holland, 15 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Lutheran church, Ashville, with the Rev. H. D. Fudge officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery by E. F. Schlegel. Friends may call after 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Harley Rhinesmith home in Madison township.

THE COMMISSION presented an almost mind-shattering word picture of the danger facing the United States in the near future unless the United Nations becomes a workable body supported as a peaceful instrument by all nations.

The commission asserted that today the Army can put only two and one-half divisions of combat troops into the field compared to its strength of around ten million two years ago.

The group, which was composed of some of the nation's outstanding educational, religious and industrial leaders, was headed by Dr. Karl T. Compton, one of the leaders in development of the atomic bomb.

EBENEZER SPEAKMAN Ebenezer Speakman, 83, died Sunday in the Home and Hospital on Scioto street following a protracted illness.

Mr. Speakman was born Nov. 24, 1863 in Ross county, the son of Ebenezer Speakman. His mother's maiden name was Davis. Mr. Speakman lived about 50 years in Pickaway county. He was a farmer. His wife, Mrs. Ida Collins Speakman, predeceased him in death. Mr. Speakman was a member of the First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Albert Frazier, Tarlton; and Mrs. Ray Mann, Lancaster; two sons, Dewey Speakman, Circleville; and Arthur Speakman, Columbus, and 17 grandchildren.

FATHER OF 9 KILLED ATHENS, O., June 2 — Nine children were left fatherless today as Hoyt Karns, 54, Poston, died of injuries received when he was struck by car five miles north of Athens.

CONVICTION STANDS WASHINGTON, June 2 — The supreme court today upheld the conviction of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, on a war fraud conspiracy charge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce, Washington township were hosts for the second family reunion dinner party Sunday. Guests from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goodrich, Mary Ann Roberts and Jim Goodrich, West Lafayette, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Pinkerton, Findlay; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Potter, Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Justice and Joan Justice, Columbus; and Dr. John Ogg and Mrs. Carrie Wilkinson, Medina.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Williamsport Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. Carl Wilson will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery. Friends may call at the Mader funeral home.

WILLIAM H. NUGENT

William H. Nugent, 78, prominent Williamsport and Clarkburg business man, died at 10:30 p. m. Sunday in his home at Clarksburg.

Mr. Nugent was born in 1869 at Medina. He was married in 1928 to Mrs. Alberta Binns.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Alberta Nugent is survived by a sister, Mrs. Carrie Wilkinson, Medina.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Williamsport Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. J. H. Sudlow and the Rev. I. C. Wright will officiate. Burial will be in Springlawn cemetery under direction of S. B. Metzger, Williamsport funeral director.

MRS. FRANCIS GLOYD

Mrs. Lulu Mae Gloyd, 34, died

Schlegel, Ashville.

MASTER MUMAW

A son was born in Berger hospital at 5:10 p. m. Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Mumaw, 513 South Pickaway street.

WELLSTON MAN FINED

Fine of $100 and costs was imposed on Gerald C. Dickerson, 32, miner, Wellston, RFD, by Mayor Ben H. Gordon, Saturday night, for driving when intoxicated. Dickerson had been arrested at 7:50 p. m. Friday on South Court street by police.

ASHVILLE REDS KEEP SCO LEAD IN CLOSE GAME

Greenfield Edged 5-4 In One
Of Four Tight Contests
In Baseball League

Ashville was still leading the South Central Ohio Baseball league Monday but the Reds had the scare of their lives Sunday in Ashville Community park.

Low-ranking Greenfield proved to be the toughest for the Reds have faced this season and Ashville had to come from behind to win 5-4.

Greenfield scored three runs in the fourth and held the 3-0 lead until the seventh. Harold Gulick's single in the second was the only Ashville hit until the seventh.

In the fourth inning Newland walked, Wilson singled to right and when Green fumbled the ball, Newland scored and Wilson took second. Buckhammer singled to score Wilson and Dewisse singled home Buckhamer.

Wally noon singled to open Ashville's half of the seventh. Glen Belcher singled, Noon stopping at second. Harold Gulick popped up and Bob Harper fanned. Jay Gregg walked to fill the bases. Then Leonard Hornsby, who started pitching in the sixth, tripled to deep right field, clearing the bases. Hornsby scored on a wild pitch.

In the top of the ninth Greenfield tied the score at 4-4 when Dewisse doubled and Cooper singled home Pierce who ran for Dewisse.

Harold Gulick walked to start the last of ninth. Bob Sawyer, batting for Harper, was safe on an error. Jay Gregg was out trying to bunt Hornsby was purposely passed, filling the bases. Tracey laid down a bunt that scored Harold Gulick with the winning run.

Russ Gregg looked good in the five innings he pitched, giving up only five hits. He was removed for a pinchhitter in the fifth.

Next Sunday Ashville winds up the first round by entertaining Washington C. H.

AT JAMESTOWN, Rigio, who failed to make the grade with the Pittsburgh Pirates, gave up nine hits but Jamestown won from Chillicothe 3-2. The home team got six hits off Bartlett and Brown and took advantage of six Mead errors.

Lancaster's two runs in the first inning were enough to give them a win over Grove City. Final score was 3-1. Graves allowed the winners eight hits and Grove City got seven off Daubene.

Washington C. H. and Jeffersonville played the fourth close game, the Eagles winning 6-5 before more than 1,000 fans that jammed Wilson field. Wackman pitched shutout ball after J. Stewart homered in the first until the seventh when Jeffersonville scored four times to take the lead and bring in Reeder to the Washington mound. Shinkle and Pollock pitched for Jeffersonville.

RAIN STOPS HEN DRIVE TO FIRST; BIRDS IN SPLIT

By International News Service
The Kansas City Blues and the Toledo Mud Hens maintained faint hopes today of outwitting their common enemy, Jupiter Pluvius, long enough to salvage part of their crucial American Association series.

The scheduled three-game series between the league leading Blues and the second place Mud Hens was originally billed as one to settle the immediate possession of first place.

Kansas City was assured of leaving Toledo in first place, however, when a double header was rained out yesterday. The Mud Hens were two and a half games behind and couldn't make up all the ground, even if today's double header were played.

Tomorrow the Blues move on to the comparative safety of Columbus. That city's Red Birds are in seventh place.

The Birds split a twin bill with Milwaukee yesterday, winning the first game 11 to 7 but dropping the nightcap, 1 to 0.

Alex Patterson, Columbus rookie, coasted to his sixth straight victory without a defeat in the opener although Tom Neill of the Brewers tagged him for a grand-clam homerun in the final inning. Jimmy Wallace out-pitched Jack Girffore in the seven-inning nightcap.

Louisville took a double header from Minneapolis, sinking the Millers in the league cellar. Joe Ostrowski and Clem Dreisels hurled the Colonels to 4-2 and 3-1 triumphs.

St. Paul and Indianapolis were rained out in a double header.

HOOVER ON EUROPE

HERBERT HOOVER is deeply concerned, as well he may be, regarding Europe's pronounced swing toward collectivism, often described as a "swing to the left." It is from that quarter of the compass that trouble most frequently appears in stormy times, such as accompany revolutions.

But it is true that we have killed more people annually in ordinary peacetime accidents than we have buried in any given year due to wartime casualties. Therefore, any indicated increase in that death list should demand every vacationer's attention—even if it involves the war.

And some of the accidents which are going to happen this year do involve the war.

A typical example was the announcement here the other day by the United States Navy. Tourists who are aiming toward sea-coast resorts during the forthcoming months should be particularly interested. Said the Navy:

"Deadly mines of World War II probably will be washing up on American shores in increasing numbers because time and weather working at their moorings, gradually are cutting them adrift."

"It is a difficult and hazardous job to render them harmless, and some of German and Japanese origin are equipped with anti-personnel 'booby traps' set for anyone attempting to dispose of them. The job should be left to special Army-Navy ordnance disposal teams trained especially to make harmless the lethal leftovers of the war."

In short, when you're lounging along the surf this Summer, you'll be wise to watch and see that no over-size pineapple comes floating your way.

Furthermore, if such a gadget does come riding the tide into your vacation harbor, don't go kicking around trying to demobilize it all by your brave and courageous self. If you do, your heroism is liable to be fatal to a lot of your friends and fellow-vacationers, as well as yourself.

Instead of making like Superman, call the demolition squad.

And, incidentally, that's just one of the vacation dangers which are directly attributable to the war. The case of the "loaded" souvenirs is another.

The Army and Navy have joined forces (even before there was merger legislation) in pointing out that there has been a steady increase in requests for trained experts to dispose of loaded mines, souvenir mortars, hand grenades and other weapons.

Locally, they have asked the American Automobile Association to warn its members to be careful about buying any type of souvenirs involving momentos of World War II. The trouble is, they may not be deactivated Jim-cracks and may contain dangerous explosives or lethal booby traps.

Any postwar wanderer knows (as this correspondent has learned last year) that you now can buy countless knick-knacks such as table-lamps made out of anti-aircraft shell casings, or paper-weights made out of old hand grenades, at almost any tourist mecca in the land.

And that's very fine, if all the explosives and firing devices have been removed from these gadgets by experts. Unfortunately, that isn't always true—and when it isn't, Junior is liable to wind up one day as a war casualty, even though he was only 13 when the war ended.

FISHING TIME

A GOOD many people will understand what Former President Hoover meant when he said that one of the very few times a resident of the United States can be sure of any privacy is when he goes fishing. Mr. Hoover, who knows what he is talking about in this instance, added: "the pneumatic hammering of demands on a President's mind has increased in frequency with the rising tide of economic and international complexity—he just has to get away somehow, somewhere and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

This goes for people less burdened than a President of these United States. While few citizens have anything like the troubles that beset a chief executive, they have their own problems that are real and exhausting to them. There is something about fishing that gives strength and poise for renewed attack on life. It doesn't all come from that experience, glorious as indeed it is, of hauling a protesting, gleaming fish out of the water on the end of a bending pole. The sport of fishing can be followed for the most part only in quiet places, in the open, away from the rush and turmoil of cities. There's something, too, about the water itself which is soothing. And then there is the open sky above, the healing panorama of nature. Which reminds us, it's time to get those fishing rods in shape!

Our civilization is improving when men give blood instead of spilling it.

Inside WASHINGTON

Gael Sullivan Center
Of Demo Family Fight

Russ Claim "Miracle"
Cures Through Surgery

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—All is not happiness, backslapping and laughter at the Democratic national committee. A storm is brewing around young, impetuous Gael Sullivan, the executive director.

Gael, breathing youthful enthusiasm, well stocked with partisan zeal, has been pretty much in charge since Postmaster General Bob Hannegan, the national chairman, became ill. Hannegan has been recuperating many weeks, and it still is problematical whether he will return to the chairmanship.

Meanwhile, Gael has received several spankings from President Truman—the most notable of which was over the letter he wrote Republicans in Congress, asking them, "as a patriotic duty," to support the Truman Doctrine.

This gave the GOP—going down the line on bipartisan foreign policy—an excellent chance to raise a righteous cyclone.

By the time Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Arthur Vandenberg (R), Mich., and other boys got through, the Democrats had taken a public spanking. The president did not like it, but he was kind to Gael, and said, in effect, "go and sin no more."

Sullivan's speeches now are pretty general. They blame the GOP for everything except the Biblical flood, but stick to generalities.

It is likely that, if Hannegan's retirement is permanent, the Democrats will at least supply Gael with an elder statesman to advise him. He probably will keep the title. Anyhow, it is a smart bet.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, June 2 — In a way, it makes you mad to think about it.

After all, if it's vacation time and you've only got a week or two shake the year's kinks out of your system, you hate like heck to be reminded of the war.

You'd rather think this was purely peace-time, and forget the recent unpleasantness.

But it is true that we have killed more people annually in ordinary peacetime accidents than we have buried in any given year due to wartime casualties. Therefore, any indicated increase in that death list should demand every vacationer's attention—even if it involves the war.

And some of the accidents which are going to happen this year do involve the war.

wounded in World War II.

How these cures are effected is described in the Russian government's main propaganda publication in the United States—the Soviet Embassy Bulletin, published in Washington.

One patient, a Capt. Vladimir Zakharov, who suffered a severe head wound from shrapnel in the storming of Koenigsberg, was put back in good health, the Bulletin said, through neurosurgery.

"A shell splinter pierced his skull," the Bulletin reports, "driving bits of his cap into the brain. Photographs taken two years ago show rather grisly bulge the size of an egg at the back of his head, where the brain actually protruded through the skull.

"A delicate operation was performed by Dr. Aregaznen Melikyan, an Armenian surgeon who designed her own method for operations of this kind. Now you can scarcely feel the scar at the back of the patient's head."

ONE THING HELPED SAVE the Italian and Balkan peace treaties from real trouble in the Senate foreign relations committee. The fact that Chairman Arthur Vandenberg (R), Michigan, and Senator Tom Connally (D), Texas, ranking minority member, had a hand in treaty drafting.

The unanimous vote, by which the 13 committee members recommended ratification of the four treaties, demonstrated bipartisan cooperation operating under stress.

Both Vandenberg and Connally attended the Paris peace conference and the preliminaries thereto which led to the four treaty drafts. As advisers to the then Secretary of State James Byrnes, they were in on the developments at each stage.

Opposition from Italian-American groups, who charged during public hearings that the treaty was unjust and unfair, began to swing committee sentiment toward a policy of delay. But both Vandenberg and Connally had staunchly supported the State department's argument that the treaties were the best which could be had under the circumstances. Their colleagues finally voted unanimously for ratification.

Diplomatic observers believe that had the two senators not gone to Paris, and come back sharing Byrnes' beliefs, the Italian treaty, at least, would not have had anything like unanimous committee backing. It might easily have been rejected or postponed.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

BILL WENT out to the living room with Doctor Everts. Diane heard them talking there, heard the door close behind the doctor. Then Bill came back. "I am going to telephone to Mother. She'll come over. In spite of how you feel about it, she'll have to be told now of your condition!"

Diane only nodded her head in answer, closed her eyes. The doctor had given her a sedative; let Bill think it was beginning to work.

He called his mother. He went out to the dinette. Diane heard the rattle of dishes, the run of water in the kitchen sink.

But the look on his face stayed with her. Frightened, weak tears slipped down her cheeks to the pillow. "I'll tell him—I wouldn't have gotten on that horse if I'd dreamed—of course I wouldn't—but, oh, Bill, why don't you know that, without my saying so?"

After a little she did drift off to sleep.

She awakened to a room dark except for a shaft of light that came in from the hall. Mrs. Arden was tiptoeing across it.

Diane appealed to Doctor Everts when he came but, smiling and suave, he shook his head. "Three days at least, little lady, and then we'll see."

It would be three days before she could say it to Bill! Before he would let her! Now he only came to the side of her bed, asked her how she felt, went away. Mrs. Arden brought her trays, magazines, toilet things, spoke when she spoke, in a voice which Diane fancied, guarded the reproach she wanted to utter, went out of the room.

And Diane felt increasingly like a person convicted, with sentence waiting until the full extent of her crime was determined. And increasingly rebellious.

Doctor Everts came early on the morning of the fourth day. Bill had stayed at the apartment to hear what he had to say.

Diane said: "Yes, I'm going to be good."

"You've stayed."

"I insisted on staying. Bill is beside himself with anxiety. He's just fallen asleep now on the day-shift. Is the pain better?"

Diane said: "Yes, I'm going to be good."

"I'll bring you some warm milk. Perhaps you'll sleep again."

Mrs. Arden tiptoed out to the kitchen.

"Yes, only, from now on, you keep in your saddle—"

Bill went out of the room with the milk. Mrs. Arden came in. She put an arm around Diane and kissed her; Diane felt tears on her cheek. "Oh, my dear, I am so happy! I haven't dared to say it, to think of it until now, now that there's no danger! I shall hurry home to tell Bill's father! Bill must bring you over for dinner tonight—"

Bill said from the door: "I'll drive you home, Mother."

"You'll be back?" Diane asked Bill quickly, her glance appealing. But he had turned away. "Yes," he said over his shoulder.

Mrs. Arden kissed Diane again and followed Bill. After a few moments Diane heard the outer door close behind them.

She began to dress, her fingers fumbling with nervousness, her heart beating violently. She could say it to Bill, when he came back, sit it in his arms. More than that, she regretted this that had happened. She must make him understand this feeling she had of never quite reaching him, that he must help her—

She moved away from him. "Your mother said something about going for dinner. I suppose to celebrate—"

"Yes, she spoke of it to me. It'll be something to see Dad's face! I may be late at the office; I'll phone if I go straight there."

"I'll wait till half past six."

"Sure you're feeling all right?"

He went away. And Diane stood very still staring at the door.

"I wonder, Bill, if I'll ever forgive you!" She put her hand to her cheek where his had touched it, dropped it slowly. And then something happened that hurt so terribly there wasn't even conscious pain, and when this passed—it had happened. Clearing the breakfast things, putting the apartment in order, marketing sweetbreads. Bill liked sweetbreads—she kept thinking: "It has happened."

William Arden, because the face looked so like Bill's had, these days of her purgatory. At sight of Bill she let a little involuntary sound of joy escape her lips, moved swiftly across the room to him.

But Bill was picking up his briefcase from the table. He asked, without glancing at her: "Did you thank Mother for all she did?"

"No, I meant to. I will, of course! Bill—" Because she had to force it through tightening lips, her voice was empty of the yearning in her heart. "I'm sorry you were so worried."

He said coldly: "Wasn't it to be expected I'd be?" He put his briefcase under his arm, turned toward the door. "As the doctor put it, you were lucky this time. You may not be the next. So I must ask you to think of that before you commit any more indiscretions—"

Diane was too angry to reason that this was Bill's pent-up anxiety finding an outlet.

She dug her fingers into the palms of her hands. "I must sit here in this apartment all these months and think—"

"Does it bore you?"

MISS ARLEDGE, ROLAND QUICKEL WED IN CHURCH

Personal Items

Mrs. Mable K. Nothstine, Los Angeles, California, has arrived in Circleville to spend the summer months with her brother and sister, J. T. Kirkendall and Mrs. George R. Haswell, West Mill street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heiskell and daughter, Cleveland, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Heiskell, North Court street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar wearing a white street length frock and a small white hat with a dainty veil. A corsage of red rose buds was pinned at her shoulder. Her only jewelry was a pair of earrings a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Betty McDonald, Circleville, was maid of honor in a poudre blue crepe dress accented by white accessories, and a corsage of deep pink carnations.

Glen Dean, Columbus, was best man and seating the guests were Joe Arledge, Columbus, and Gene Arledge, Cincinnati, brothers of the bride.

PRECEDING the nuptial vows Mrs. Karl Herrmann presented a period of appropriate wedding selections on the church organ and Miss Anne Moeller sang, "Always" and "I Love You Truly".

A reception was held for 65 guests in the Pickaway Arms immediately following the ceremony. Diningroom was beautifully decorated for the occasion in Spring flowers and burning tapers. Bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded with ferns interspersed with pink carnations and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom flanked by white candles.

Mrs. Arledge selected for her daughter's wedding a navy blue and white bemberg sheer dress with white accessories. Bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Quickel, wore a dark pink crepe highlighted by white accessories. White carnations were used for the corsages of both mothers.

WHEN THE new Mr. and Mrs. Quickel left on their wedding trip to Cedar Point, Lake Erie, the bride was wearing a coco-brown suit and matching accessories with her wedding flowers pinned at her shoulder. Bride is a graduate of Circleville high school and has been associated with the C. J. Schneider furniture store. Mr. Quickel was graduated from South high school, Columbus and served in the U. S. Army for three and a half years. He now is employed by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad as apprentice machinist, Columbus. Upon their return the new couple will make their home in 1854½ South Parsons avenue, Columbus.

JUDGE RADCLIFF WARNS AGAINST FUTURE WARS

JUDGE WILLIAM D. RADCLIFF warned against the suddenness of the next war because of the atomic bomb and urged universal military training in his Memorial Day address in Darbyville Methodist church.

About 500 were present at the program sponsored by the Muhlenberg township Memorial association. The 50-piece Nelsonville high school band furnished music and 75 members of the Circleville VFW post and auxiliary were present in uniform. Dinner was served by the WSCS of the 4-H organization.

For most of the German and Japanese carbines and pistols, despite their seeming millimeter and caliber perfection, can stand the power of American ammunition only so long, and some of the finest-cast German shotguns, with their priceless hand-carved stocks, will explode when fired with American shells.

As was mentioned before, it makes you mad to think about the war during vacation—so the safest thing is to keep away from everything which had anything to do with it!

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

"1,000 facts Worth Knowing," "Famous First Facts," and three other similar books already published, plus three more he's got in the works.

Joe started picking up facts when he was a free lance writer. He used to visit a town or community somewhere in the United States and write stories on local Americana. Instead of letting these facts and stories lie fallow, he began lecturing on America, wrote books of facts, and now he sells them over to find suitable ones for "Break the Bank."

"I try to make the questions informative," he says with professor-like calm, "but the show is purely entertainment with education as a by-product."

Well, Joe, your questions sound easy. But when you can't answer them, does that make me a dope?

"The ability to answer questions on a quiz program is not a rating of knowledge."

Well, that's a relief.

Now it's Martin Block who'll have a full hour disk jockey network series, following on the heels of Paul Whiteman. Block will be heard on MBS and his contract calls for $6,000 weekly the first year, increasing to $8,000 in a five year span. The series, for which starting date has yet to be set, will originate in Hollywood.

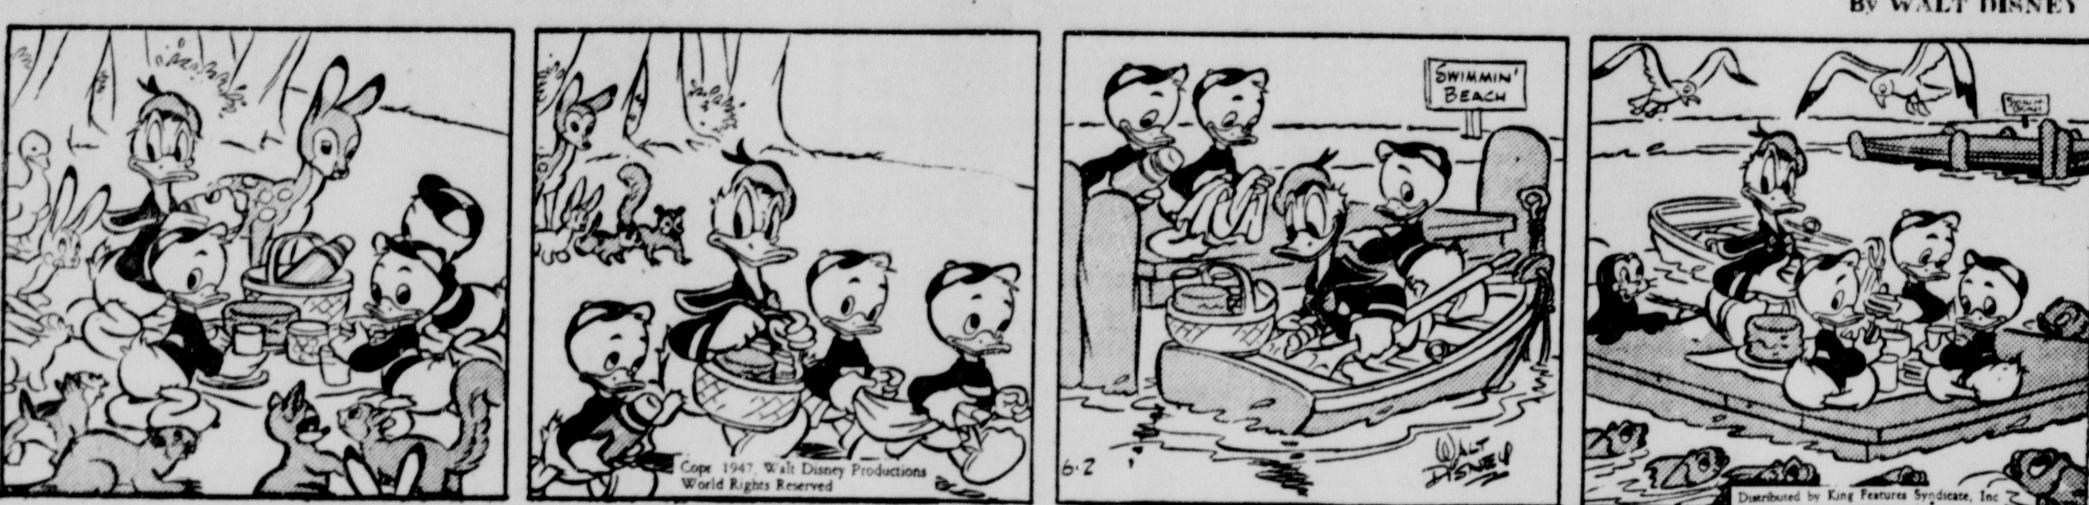

Cecil B. DeMille, missing from radio since his battle with AFRA, plans a return with "The Book of the Week" with a repertory group dramatizing new books in a half-hour series. DeMille's dispute arose when, as producer of "The Radio Theatre," he refused to pay a union membership assessment. A court decision is pending.

Circleville Public Library Begins Summer Schedule Monday

READING ROOMS
OPEN FROM 9 TO
6 DAILY NOW

April And May Busy Months,
Librarian's Report On
Circulation Shows

Circleville Public Library goes on Summer schedule beginning
Monday, it was announced by Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian.

The Summer hours 9-6 Monday through Saturday will remain in effect until city schools reopen in the Fall. "It has been found that the library is one of the coolest spots in town during the hot summer months and residents are reminded that whether they are card holders or not, they are welcome to use the reading room and the available magazines there," Mrs. Denham said.

One feature of the Summer activities will be the special story hours planned in cooperation with the Brownie Scout Summer program. Dates for these story-hours have not yet been fixed, but the Brownies will be notified of the dates through the Scout Bulletin and the library.

APRIL WAS a busy month at the city library, it was disclosed from the monthly report made at the board meeting recently. Total circulation for the children from the main library amounted to 3,228, adult, 3,149. This with the county circulation made a total of 6463. A total of 125 books were taken by teachers who reported 530 circulations on these books.

This record is of course hardly the whole story for many children read their books during their time in school, and often full circulation is not recorded.

One hundred and forty-eight books were catalogued and 40 new pamphlets added to the library during the month. Fifty-nine reference questions, some of them for a radio program, and 110 books consulted in order to find the correct answers to the queries.

April and May were the big months for books on all kinds of entertainments. Commencement programs, plays, speeches, showers, books on sports and games, several patrons in a wave of optimism as to the weather took out books on gardening, flower growing. While several students finished up their last assignments in the library reading room.

IN ORDER that the children might not forget too quickly what they have learned in the grades during the school year, there are available at the library several copies of books used in the grades "Dick and Jane Stories", Hahn, "Home for Turkey Gobbler", "We Come and Go", "We Work and Play", "Fun with Tom and Jip", "Happy Children", "Good Stories" and other of early ages, "How to Behave and Why", a book on manners by Munro Leaf, large of print, and cleverly illustrated with simple ethics of today, "Pretzel and the Puppies", by Rey, "Jacob tells the Truth" by Weil, "Spot", by English, "Pretty Little Doll", by Berry, and "Barbara's Birthday", by Black.

Soil Conservation Notes

By J. A. Muster

Supplementing figures given recently in this column covering increased farm profits realized on conservation planned farms as compared to similar non-conservation planned farms in a nearby state, the following figures, applying closer to home, are given.

By adopting soil conservation methods, 26 farmers of Ohio each added $725 to their farm income. This fact was shown in a new comparative study of farm incomes the result of which has just been announced. It should be of personal interest to every farmer living in the Pickaway soil conservation district. The Pickaway district already has 87 cooperators but most are just starting to use soil conservation methods. These men will be interested in finding out what they can expect to realize in the future from their new farming program. The new study gives the answer.

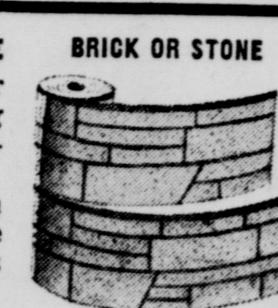

In making the study, farm economists selected 52 farms which were comparable in size, in type of land and which were located in the same part of the state. Of this group 26 are being operated under well developed, complete farm conservation plans. On the remainder, little or no conservation is being practiced. The information was obtained directly from the farmers themselves. It covers crop acreage, yields and the amount of crop and livestock products sold by farmers during the 1945 crop year. Actual 1945 market prices were used in computing for both groups.

THE 26 CONSERVATION farmers had an average income that year of $2,785 which was $725 higher than the non-conservation average. They earned $20.30 per acre which was $5.47 an acre more than the non conservation farmers received that year. Farms in both groups averaged approximately 137 acres.

As contrasted with the second group, the conservation farmers had these increases in crop yields: corn and soybeans, 11.1 bushels per acre; wheat, 6.5 bushels per acre; oats 7.9 bushels per acre; hay, 14 tons per farm.

In addition the conservation farmers averaged 2,159 pounds more pork than the second group, 721 pounds more beef, 302 pounds more poultry; 697

Tornadoes Kill 38, Injure More Than 300

TWO VILLAGES ARE LEVELED BY 'TWISTERS'

Arkansas, Oklahoma Towns
In Path Of Storms;
Rural Areas Hit

By International News Service

Two tornadoes which struck the south central states of Arkansas and Oklahoma left in the wake today at least 38 dead and more than 300 injured.

The small farming community of Union, Ark., and Leedey, Okla., were in the direct path of the twisters and suffered heavy casualties and damage.

Union, a village of about 400 inhabitants, was practically leveled by the second of the two tornadoes, which ripped the town yesterday afternoon.

Almost every building in the community was damaged or destroyed. Thirty-two persons were killed and nearly 300 injured.

THE RED CROSS, state national guard, and U.S. Army authorities set up emergency facilities to care for the injured and homeless.

The first twister, which struck the tiny town of Leedey Saturday, killed six persons and injured 12.

Three quarters of the town was demolished. The tornado blew southeast from Higgins, Tex., where heavy casualties were suffered in the April 9 twister in which almost 200 persons were killed in Oklahoma and Texas.

FARM BUILDINGS were destroyed and several persons injured as the twister swirled about the Oklahoma towns of Blair, Shattuck, Gage, Sharon and Fargo. Farther north, violent electrical storms caused extensive damage in the St. Louis area yesterday and last night.

At Hannibal, Mo., a flash flood in the Bear bottoms forced nearly 200 families to leave their homes yesterday.

STATE PATROL LISTS THREE HOLIDAY DEATHS

COLUMBUS, O., Jun 2 — The state highway patrol reported today that only three automobile accident fatalities occurred in Ohio outside municipalities during the three-day holiday weekend.

However, the total number of accidents reported by the patrol was 200. The patrol listed 182 injured. The patrol's breakdown showed:

May 30—73 accidents with 70 injured; May 31—55 accidents, with 40 injured and two killed; June 1—72 accidents with 72 injured and one killed.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Eliminations for the 1948 leaden gloves tourney have started—Wallace and Stassen are knocking each other out.

Harold says Henry hasn't got anything except a tricky left wing and a rabid punch.

And Henry says Harold is the kind of fellow who would accept the vice presidency.

Henry also predicts that there will be no Republicans left in 50 years. He forgot that Dewey, Taft and Bricker have children.

But Henry's predictions always are a treat like—1944 "this is the century of the common man" and 1947 "this is the century of fear."

Anyway the boys make a good preliminary to the main bout to which both hope to be invited.

SEATED IN A BIG CHAIR in his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., little Jeffrey Freeman, 2, points to a wedding picture of his mother, Mrs. Leo Freeman who, along with his father, died in the crash of the United Air Lines DC-4 at LaGuardia Field, N. Y. Forty other persons lost their lives in the accident which occurred during the takeoff.

AIR TRAVEL SAID 8 TIMES AS DANGEROUS AS RAIL

WASHINGTON, June 2 — Subcommittee as he protested the 33 per cent cut the house made in the 287-million dollar commerce department request.

He declared that the 70-million dollar slash in civil aeronautics administration funds will "more than cut in half" CAA's program of installing new safety devices.

HARRIMAN reminded the committee that both house and senate commerce committees have been concerned about air crashes and recommended installation of new safety devices as rapidly as they could be produced.

He cited the house appropriation committee's report, which said:

"Air accidents will only be eliminated, it seems to the committee, when people stop flying."

The commerce secretary declared:

"While it is true that air accidents cannot be entirely eliminated, the important consideration is that air accidents can be reduced and air service improved by installation of new and proven devices."

"Commercial air travel is still eight times as dangerous as railroad or bus travel."

"Furthermore, with the increase in traffic, larger planes and higher speeds, air accidents are likely to increase unless improved facilities are installed."

COLUMBUS, O., June 2 — The Ohio legislature begins its sixth month—and supposedly its last week—of deliberations tonight with attention centered on the fate of the Oleo bill.

The measure to permit the sale of colored margarine in Ohio has passed the senate and is before the house committee on organization of state government.

Parents of Jack Wesley Jr. will be the recipients of a floral tribute from Brehmer's, one carter of six 60-watt lamps from Ohio Electric company, and a three-month subscription from The Circleville Herald.

COLORED OLEO IN LEGISLATIVE LIMELIGHT NOW

COLUMBUS, O., June 2 — The Ohio legislature begins its sixth month—and supposedly its last week—of deliberations tonight with attention centered on the fate of the Oleo bill.

The measure to permit the sale of colored margarine in Ohio has passed the senate and is before the house committee on organization of state government.

Although the house has passed a resolution calling for the end of working sessions this Friday, there appears to be far too much work remaining to meet that deadline.

As a result, the solons are expected to put into effect the traditional and almost childish practice of covering the clocks and calendars in the chambers and pretending that it will remain June 6 until the session is over. It was learned that the house clerk has ordered cloth covers made for the two house clocks.

Only two of six must measures have cleared both houses—the soldier bonus and the Daniels-Cramer school bill—and conference committees are expected to be necessary to work out house-senate differences on both.

Anyway the boys make a good preliminary to the main bout to which both hope to be invited.

TWO MEN KILLED NINE HURT IN DYNAMITE PLANT

Explosion Near New Castle, Pennsylvania, Heard In 10-Mile Area

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 2 — Two men were reported killed and nine others were injured today when twin explosions ripped Cyanamid and Chemical Corp., works six miles west of New

New Castle police identified the victims as Merle Craven, 55, and Robert Downing, 38, both of New Castle. Company officials said the two men were at work on the dynamite mixing plant in which the initial blast occurred.

Those hurt, according to police, were employed outside the building or in a neighboring mixing plant.

Seven of the injured, including one woman identified as Iona Mayberry, were taken to Jamestown general hospital.

Two of the injured—Leo Delfosse, 40, and Theodore Galanski—were taken to New Castle hospital where they were reported in critical condition.

Company officials said the blasts occurred four minutes apart. The gelatin mixing building in which the initial explosion let go was demolished. The adjoining structure was badly damaged.

A few minutes after the blasts leveled the two buildings all available ambulances and police from New Castle were rushed to the powder plant.

The explosion broke windows in New Castle and police said the blast was heard in a 10-mile area.

WIFE USE BARE HANDS TO FREE BURIED HUSBAND

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Richard M. Peck, Cleveland, was reported recovering rapidly today following rescue by his wife after he had been buried in a 10-foot sewer ditch.

Peck, 28, yesterday was digging a channel to permit excess rain water to drain from the ditch, located on the site of their new home in suburban Parma.

His wife, Mary, 25, was seated in an automobile nearby when she heard a muffled cry. "Some premonition," she said, moved her to investigate.

When she reached the ditch, her husband was not in sight. However, she heard him cry faintly, "Mary, please get me out of here!"

The young wife jumped into the ditch and began clawing furiously with her hands. She soon reached her husband's head, permitting him to breathe until rescuers, attracted by Mrs. Peck's cries, arrived.

Parma police said a miscalculation on the part of Mrs. Peck when she started digging would have proved fatal to her husband.

Although the house has passed a resolution calling for the end of working sessions this Friday, there appears to be far too much work remaining to meet that deadline.

As a result, the solons are expected to put into effect the traditional and almost childish practice of covering the clocks and calendars in the chambers and pretending that it will remain June 6 until the session is over.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. NOAH WARNER

Mrs. Flora Ellen Warner, 88, widow of Noah A. Warner and a life-long resident of Pickaway county, died unexpectedly Sunday morning in her home at 302 East Main street.

Mrs. Warner was born Dec. 11, 1858, in Walnut township, the daughter of John and Deliah Morris, and she was the youngest of a family of 14 children all of whom are deceased. Noah A. Warner, to whom she was married Dec. 29, 1881, died Jan. 31, 1947 following a short illness. They celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last December. Mrs. Warner was a member of the Methodist church for 60 years. She was also a member of the Circleville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors are a son, Earl Warner, Detroit, Mich.; three grandchildren, Mrs. Sampson J. Smith, Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Mrs. James O. Sage, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; and Mrs. Glenn Robinson II, Detroit, Mich.; and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the residence. The Rev. Clarence Swearingen will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery under the direction of the Mader funeral home. Friends may call at the residence.

WILLIAM CURRY

William Christian Curry died unexpectedly as he prepared for bed Sunday at 10:30 p.m. in the home of his daughter Mrs. Harley Rhinesmith, Madison township.

The training would be under direction of a three-man commission, consisting of two civilians and one military representative, who would report directly to the president.

CONGRESS was urgently advised to give immediate consideration to the universal training program which calls for a six months period of basic training to be followed by an additional six months of advance training in some branch of the armed forces or reserves, for all young men of 18 years, or upon completion of high school study.

At the same time, the commission disclosed the shocking state of unpreparedness in to which the nation has fallen since the end of the second world war.

The commission asserted that today the Army can put only two and one-half divisions of combat troops into the field compared to its strength of around ten million two years ago.

The group, which was composed of some of the nation's outstanding educational, religious and industrial leaders, was headed by Dr. Karl T. Compton, one of the leaders in development of the atomic bomb.

THE COMMISSION presented an almost mind-shattering word picture of the danger facing the United States in the near future unless the United Nations becomes a workable body supported as a peaceful instrument by all nations.

The commission said that such an achievement has not been reached and apparently is not in present prospect. It stated:

"So long as any great nation has power to stop by veto any proposed United Nations action against it as an aggressor, the United Nations cannot act to protect against such aggression."

The commission asserted that the United States is the "prime target for the aggressor of the future."

HERE IS part of the grim picture the commission painted should the U.S. be attacked:

"A nation bent on conquest can plan and prepare in advance for a definite campaign and type of warfare. It need not—and in the future almost certainly will not—formally declare war. It strikes when it is most confident of success."

"Under its constitution, the United States cannot... have no choice except to prepare for every type of attack which might be launched against it from any possible source."

The commission said that after the U. S. loses atomic immunity in four to 10 years, "the signal for the start of a war against us will, it is to be expected, be a large-scale, long-distance onslaught with atomic explosives against our principle centers of population and production."

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The surplus property credits to Hungary.

The action was interpreted as a slap at the ousting of Premier Ferenc Nagy and the installation of a Community-friendly government.

Some time ago the United States authorized surplus property credits of 30 million dollars to Hungary. Fifteen millions have been used and it is the balance of 15 millions which has been suspended.

In a second move obviously aimed at combatting Communist activities, Secretary of State Marshall issued a friendly and laudatory statement on Italian Prime Minister Gasperi, head of the newly reformed and non-Communist cabinet.

Marshall assured the Italian people of aid through credits and other means.

TAX COMPROMISE BILL RECEIVES HOUSE APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The house approved today the joint conference report providing four billion dollars in tax reductions for 49 million income taxpayers and sent the measure to the senate for final action.

The tax bill compromise was expected to be adopted expeditiously by the upper chamber and forwarded to the White House with little delay.

ASHVILLE REDS KEEP SCO LEAD IN CLOSE GAME

Greenfield Edged 5-4 In One
Of Four Tight Contests
In Baseball League

Ashville was still leading the South Central Ohio Baseball league Monday but the Reds had the scare of their lives Sunday in Ashville Community park.

Low-ranking Greenfield proved to be the toughest foe the Reds have faced this season and Ashville had to come from behind to win 5-4.

Greenfield scored three runs in the fourth and held the 3-0 lead until the seventh. Harold Gulick's single in the second was the only Ashville hit until the seventh.

In the fourth inning Newland walked, Wilson singled to right and when Green fumbled the ball, Newland scored and Wilson took second. Buckhammer singled to score Wilson and Dewisse singled home Buckhammer.

Wally noon singled to open Ashville's half of the seventh. Glen Belcher singled, Noon stopping at second. Harold Gulick popped up and Bob Harper fanned. Jay Gregg walked to fill the bases. Then Leonard Hornsby, who started pitching in the sixth, tripled to deep right field, clearing the bases. Hornsby scored on a wild pitch.

In the top of the ninth Greenfield tied the score at 4-4 when Dewisse doubled and Cooper singled home Pierce who ran for the win.

Harold Gulick walked to start the last of ninth. Bob Sawyer, batting for Harper, was safe on an error. Jay Gregg was out trying to bunt. Hornsby was purposely passed, filling the bases. Tracey laid down a bunt that scored Harold Gulick with the winning run.

Russ Gregg looked good in the five innings he pitched, giving up only five hits. He was removed for a pinchhitter in the fifth.

Next Sunday Ashville winds up the first round by entertaining Washington C. H.

AT JAMESTOWN, Rigio, who failed to make the grade with the Pittsburgh Pirates, gave up nine hits but Jamestown won from Chillicothe 3-2. The home team got six hits off Bartlett and Brown and took advantage of six Mad errors.

Lancaster's two runs in the first inning were enough to give them a win over Grove City. Final score was 3-1. Graves allowed the winners eight hits and Grove City got seven off Daubenmire.

Washington C. H. and Jeffersonville played the fourth close game, the Eagles winning 6-5 before more than 1,000 fans that jammed Wilson field. Wackman pitched shutout ball after J. Stewart homered in the first until the seventh when Jeffersonville scored four times to take the lead and bring in Reeder to the Washington mound. Shinkle and Pollock pitched for Jeffersonville.

RAIN STOPS HEN DRIVE TO FIRST; BIRDS IN SPLIT

By International News Service
The Kansas City Blues and the Toledo Mud Hens maintained faint hopes today of outwitting their common enemy, Jupiter Pluvius, long enough to salvage part of their crucial American Association series.

The scheduled three-game series between the league leading Blues and the second place Mud Hens was originally billed as one to settle the immediate possession of first place.

Kansas City was assured of leaving Toledo in first place, however, when a double header was rained out yesterday. The Mud Hens were two and a half games behind and couldn't make up all the ground, even if today's double header were played.

Tomorrow the Blues move on to the comparative safety of Columbus. That city's Red Birds are in seventh place.

The Birds split a twin bill with Milwaukee yesterday, winning the first game 11 to 7 but dropping the nightcap, 1 to 0.

Alex Patterson, Columbus rookie, coasted to his sixth straight victory without a defeat in the opener although Tom Neill of the Brewers tagged him for a grand-clam homerun in the final inning. Jimmy Wallace outpitched Jack Giriffoe in the seven-inning nightcap.

Louisville took a double header from Minneapolis, sinking the Millers in the league cellar. Joe Ostrowski and Clem Dresewerd hurled the Colonels to 4-2 and 3-1 triumphs.

St. Paul and Indianapolis were rained out in a double header.

HOOVER ON EUROPE

HERBERT HOOVER is deeply concerned, as well he may be, regarding Europe's pronounced swing toward collectivism, often described as a "swing to the left." It is from that quarter of the compass that trouble most frequently appears in stormy times, such as accompany revolutions.

Nearly every country in Europe, he reminds the American public, has "gone over to some form of collectivism" interfering with the recovery of the world just when it was needed most. The interference with normal operation and recovery is seen also in our Western Hemisphere, though not so strongly.

Obviously the most essential need of the world today, in every part of the globe, is for a resurgence of productive enterprise along the lines that were familiar before the recent wars and the disorder they brought with them. A striking illustration of the economic depth to which the world has sunk is the statement that the Western Hemisphere, along with Australia and South Africa, is "carrying on its back all of western Europe," providing 90 per cent of its relief.

Obviously it is hard to restore those paralyzed areas and bring them back to fruitfulness. It is a job for an economic Hercules. But with cooperation and economic heroism, it can be done.

FISHING TIME

A GOOD many people will understand what Former President Hoover meant when he said that one of the very few times a resident of the United States can be sure of any privacy is when he goes fishing. Mr. Hoover, who knows what he is talking about in this instance, added: "the pneumatic hammering of demands on a President's mind has increased in frequency with the rising tide of economic and international complexity—he just has to get away somehow, somewhere and be alone for a few hours once in while."

This goes for people less burdened than a President of these United States. While few citizens have anything like the troubles that beset a chief executive, they have their own problems that are real and exhausting to them. There is something about fishing that gives strength and poise for renewed attack on life. It doesn't all come from that experience, glorious as indeed it is, of hauling a protesting, gleaming fish out of the water on the end of a bending pole. The sport of fishing can be followed for the most part only in quiet places, in the open, away from the rush and turmoil of cities. There's something, too, about the water itself which is soothing. And then there is the open sky above, the healing panorama of nature. Which reminds us, it's time to get those fishing rods in shape!

Our civilization is improving when men give blood instead of spilling it.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon

Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 2 — In a way, it makes you mad to think about it.

After all, if it's vacation time and you've only got a week or two shake the year's kinks out of your system, you hate like heck to be reminded of the war.

You'd rather think this was purely peace-time, and forget the recent unpleasantness.

But it is true that we have killed more people annually in ordinary peacetime accidents than we have buried in any given year due to wartime casualties. Therefore, any indicated increase in that death list should demand every vacationer's attention—even if it involves the war.

And some of the accidents which are going to happen this year do involve the war.

A typical example was the announcement here the other day by the United States Navy. Tourists who are aiming toward sea-coast resorts during the forthcoming months should be particularly interested. Said the Navy:

"Deadly mines of World War II probably will be washing up on American shores in increasing numbers because time and weather working at their moorings, gradually are cutting them adrift.

It is a difficult and hazardous job to render them harmless, and some of German and Japanese origin are equipped with anti-personnel 'booby traps' set for anyone attempting to dispose of them. The job should be left to special Army-Navy ordnance disposal teams trained especially to make harmless the lethal leftovers of the war."

In short, when you're lounging along the surf this Summer, you'll be wise to watch and see that no over-size pineapple comes floating your way.

Furthermore, if such a gadget does come riding the tide into your vacation harbor, don't go kicking around trying to demobilize it all by your brave and courageous self. If you do, your heroism is liable to be fatal to a lot of your friends and fellow-vacationers, as well as yourself.

Instead of making like Superman, call the demolition squad.

And, incidentally, that's just one of the vacation dangers which are directly attributable to the war. The case of the "loaded" souvenirs is another.

The Army and Navy have joined forces (even before there was merger legislation) in pointing out that there has been a steady increase in requests for trained experts to dispose of loaded mines, souvenir mortars, hand grenades and other weapons.

Locally, they have asked the American Automobile Association to warn its members to be careful about buying any type of souvenirs involving momentos of World War II. The trouble is, they may not be deactivated jimp-cracks and may contain dangerous explosives or lethal booby traps.

Any postwar wanderer knows (as this correspondent has learned last year) that you now can buy countless knick-knacks such as table-lamps made out of anti-aircraft shell casings, or paper-weights made out of old hand grenades, at almost any tourist mecca in the land.

And that's very fine, if all the explosives and firing devices have been removed from these gadgets by experts. Unfortunately, that isn't always true—and when it isn't, Junior is liable to wind up one day as a war casualty, even though he was only 13 when the war ended.

wounded in World War II.

How these cures are effected is described in the Russian government's main propaganda publication in the United States—the Soviet Embassy Bulletin, published in Washington.

One patient, a Capt. Vladimir Zakharov, who suffered a severe head wound from shrapnel in the storming of Koenigsberg, was put back in good health, the Bulletin said, through neurosurgery.

"A shell splinter pierced his skull," the Bulletin reports, "driving bits of his cap into the brain. Photographs taken two years ago show a rather grisly bulge the size of an egg at the back of his head, where the brain actually protruded through the skull."

"A delicate operation was performed by Dr. Arzeyan Melkumova, an Armenian surgeon who designed her own method for operations of this kind. Now you can scarcely feel the scar at the back of the patient's head."

• ONE THING HELPED SAVE the Italian and Balkan peace treaties from real trouble in the Senate foreign relations committee: The fact that Chairman Arthur Vandenberg (R), Michigan, and Senator Tom Connally (D), Texas, ranking minority member, had a hand in treaty drafting.

This gave the GOP—going down the line on bipartisan foreign policy—an excellent chance to raise a righteous cyclone.

By the time Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Arthur Vandenberg (R), Mich., and other boys got through, the Democrats had taken a public spanking. The president did not like it, but he was kind to Gael, and said, in effect, "go and sin no more."

Gael's speeches now are pretty general. They blame the GOP for everything except the Biblical flood, but stick to generalities.

WASHINGTON—All is not happiness, backslapping and laughter at the Democratic national committee. A storm is brewing around young, impetuous Gael Sullivan, the executive director.

Gael, breathing youthful enthusiasm, well stocked with partisan zeal, has been pretty much in charge since Postmaster General Bob Hannegan, the national chairman, became ill. Hannegan has been recuperating many weeks, and it still is problematical whether he will return to the chairmanship.

Meanwhile, Gael has received several spankings from President Truman—the most notable of which was over the letter he wrote Republicans in Congress, asking them, "as a patriotic duty," to support the Truman Doctrine.

This gave the GOP—going down the line on bipartisan foreign policy—an excellent chance to raise a righteous cyclone.

By the time Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Arthur Vandenberg (R), Mich., and other boys got through, the Democrats had taken a public spanking. The president did not like it, but he was kind to Gael, and said, in effect, "go and sin no more."

Gael's speeches now are pretty general. They blame the GOP for everything except the Biblical flood, but stick to generalities.

It is likely that, if Hannegan's retirement is permanent, the Democrats will at least supply Gael with an elder statesman to advise him. He probably will keep the title. Anyhow, it is a smart bet.

VITAL IN SMALL SLAM

AMONG ALL the known plays, there is only one which is useful for making a small slam contract, but worthless for aiding in a grand slam. That is the throw-in play. Making it necessitates giving up a trick to the defender whom you wish to furnish the lead that then produces for you a trick you otherwise could not get. But that very trick you hand to him would obviously beat a grand slam. The play, in its various forms, is vital, however, to the making of many small slam contracts.

After finding out about North's two aces through his response to the 4-No Trumps, South probed for kings with the 5-No Trumps. If North had answered 6-Hearts to show two, South said he would have bid 7-No Trumps. If he had responded 6-Clubs to show none, thereby indicating a probably extremely long spade suit, solid except for the king, South declared he would have put the side into 6-Spades—pretty risky. But when he showed one king, South decided 6-No Trumps was the spot.

At that contract, South was pretty lucky to find North's spades so solid and long, as even then he had to make a desperate try for an end-play, which happened to work. He took the heart 4 lead to the J and Q with the K, then ran all the spades. Prior to the last spade he was holding the heart 9 and his two aces, queens. His hope was that East might have the heart 10 and discard it on the last spade, but when this didn't happen, he tossed off his own heart 9. West then upon throwing his now useless 10.

South had now finessed either minor, he would have been set by West, who after winning could have put South back in his other card of the same suit. But South led to the club A, then led the Q to West's K. The latter had to lead from his two diamonds into the A-Q to give South his contract. This play could have failed if East had the club K. But South decided to play West for both kings because his lead of a fourth-best made it likely he considered he had a re-entry, possibly two.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

BILL WENT out to the living room with Doctor Everts. Diane heard them talking there, heard the door close behind the doctor. Then Bill came back. "I am going to telephone to Mother. She'll come over. In spite of how you feel about it, she'll have to be told now, of your condition."

Diane only nodded her head in answer, closed her eyes. The doctor had given her a sedative; let Bill think it was beginning to work.

He called his mother. He went out to the dinette. Diane heard the rattle of dishes, the run of water in the kitchen sink.

But the look on his face stayed with her. Frightened, weak tears slipped down her cheeks to the pillow. "I'll tell him—I wouldn't have gotten on that horse if I'd dreamed—of course I wouldn't—but, oh, Bill, why don't you know that, without my saying so?"

After a little she did drift off to sleep.

She awoke to a room dark except for a shaft of light that came in from the hall. Mrs. Arden was tiptoeing across it.

Diane lifted herself on one elbow. "What time is it?"

"Almost three o'clock."

"You've stayed—"

"I insisted on staying. Bill beside himself with anxiety. He's just fallen asleep now on the day-shift. Is the pain better?"

Diane said: "Yes," dropped back on her pillow.

"I'll bring you some warm milk. Perhaps you'll sleep again." Mrs. Arden tiptoed out to the kitchen.

"Yes. Only, from now on, you keep in your saddle—"

Bill went out of the room with Mrs. Arden in. She put an arm around Diane and kissed her. Diane felt ears on her cheek. "Oh, my dear, I am so happy! I haven't dared to say it, to think of it until now, now that there's no danger! I shall hurry home to tell Bill's father! Bill must bring you over for dinner tonight—"

Mrs. Arden came back with the warm milk and gave it to Diane. She smoothed the pillow and the bedcovers, competently, as impersonally, Diane thought, as a trained nurse, went softly out of the room.

Diane slept again.

"Is the pain better?"

It was the next morning and Bill, by her bed, asking her. "Mother'll stay here today. You'll keep very quiet?"

space, to an hour of drama, half hour of comedy, 15 minutes of music, a five minute shot of news.

Five or six days a week, Joe Kane is as far removed from radio as any listener in Alaska. You'll probably find his graying head poking through heaps of musty library books. The other one or two days, he moves into the net of highly skilled characters. Joe's skills are a vast number of facts, jointed and disjointed, which he employs in writing the questions for "Break the Bank".

On "Break the Bank," the contestant chooses a topic about which he has at least a smattering of information. The first seven

questions are worth up to $200. The eighth is the bank, starting at a thousand plus what the other contestants fail to win. It is for that reason a very popular program after 18 months on the air.

Its popularity is not to be wondered at when it pays off in handsome sums of money. Last December, just before Christmas, a young fellow and his wife scored perfect on the questions and were awarded almost $6,000, the biggest cash jackpot ever to be doled out on a radio quiz show.

The first four questions up to a hundred dollars worth" Joe says, "we make relatively easy. When we get into the more expensive questions, they've got to be harder than two plus two. It's only fair to the listeners."

JOE LOOKS like a college professor, his thoughtfully puffed lips, serious manner, graying hair. When he's thinking up the questions, he probably plants his elbows on the arm chair and

"1,000 facts Worth Knowing," "Famous First Facts," and three other similar books already published, plus three more he's got in the works.

Joe started picking up facts when he was a free lance writer. He used to visit a town or community somewhere in the United States and write stories on local Americana. Instead of letting these facts and stories lie fallow, he began lecturing on America, wrote books of facts, and now he sells them over to find suitable ones for "Break the Bank."

"I try to make the questions informative," he says with professor-like calm, "but the show is purely entertainment with education as a by-product."

Well, Joe, your questions sound easy. But when you can't answer them, does that make me a dope?

"The ability to answer questions on a quiz program is not a rating of knowledge."

Well, that's a relief.

Now it's Martin Block who'll have a full hour disk jockey network series, following on the heels of Paul Whiteman. Block will be heard on MBS and his contract calls for $6,000 weekly the first year, increasing to $8,000 in a five year span. The series, for which starting date has yet to be set, will originate in Hollywood.

Cecil B. DeMille, missing from radio since his battle with AFRA, plans a return with "The Book of the Week" with a repertory group dramatizing new books in a half-hour series. DeMille's dispute arose when, as producer of "The Radio Theatre," he refused to pay a union membership assessment. A court decision is pending.

Circleville Public Library Begins Summer Schedule Monday

READING ROOMS
OPEN FROM 9 TO
6 DAILY NOW

April And May Busy Months.
Librarian's Report On
Circulation Shows

Circleville Public Library goes on Summer schedule beginning Monday, it was announced by Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian.

The Summer hours 9-6 Monday through Saturday will remain in effect until city schools reopen in the Fall. "It has been found that the library is one of the coolest spots in town during the hot summer months and residents are reminded that whether they are card holders or not, they are welcome to use the reading room and the available magazines there," Mrs. Denham said.

One feature of the Summer activities will be the special story hours planned in cooperation with the Brownie Scout Summer program. Dates for these story-hours have not yet been fixed, but the Brownies will be notified of the dates through the Scout Bulletin and the library.

APRIL WAS A busy month at the city library, it was disclosed from the monthly report made at the board meeting recently. Total circulation for the children from the main library amounted to 3,228, adult, 3,149. This with the county circulation made a total of 6463. A total of 125 books were taken by teachers who reported 530 circulations on these books.

This record is of course hardly the whole story for many children read their books during their time in school, and often full circulation is not recorded.

One hundred and forty-eight books were catalogued and 40 new pamphlets added to the library during the month. Fifty-nine reference questions, some of them for a radio program, and 110 books consulted in order to find the correct answers to the queries.

April and May were the big months for books on all kinds of entertainments, Commencement programs, plays, speeches, showers, books on sports and games, several patrons in a wave of optimism as to the weather took out books on gardening, flower growing. While several students finished up their last assignments in the library reading room.

IN ORDER that the children might not forget too quickly what they have learned in the grades during the school year, there are available at the library several copies of books used in the grades "Dick and Jane Stories", Hahn, "Home for Turkey Gobbler", "We Come and Go", "We Work and Play", "Fun with Tom and Jip", "Happy Children", "Good Stories" and other of early ages, "How to Behave and Why", a book on manners by Munro Leaf, large of print, and cleverly illustrated with simple ethics of today, "Pretzel and the Puppies", by Rey, "Jacob tells the Truth" by Weil, "Spot", by English, "Pretty Little Doll" by Berry, and "Barbara's Birthday", by Black.

For the older children of intermediate grades, there are: "Mystery of the Five Bright Keys", by Urmston, "Cowboy Boots", by Garst, "Clara Barton" by Stevenson, "Golden Encyclopedia", "Favorite Nursery Tales", by Graham, "Thirteenth Stone", by Bothwell, "Pat Rides the Trail", by Eames, "Mystery of the Scarlet Satincase", by Wilson, "Shooting Star Farm", by Molloy, "Laziest Man of the Campus", by Muller, "Our Country's Story", by Cavanah, "Care for Your Kitten", by Atkinson, "Glamorous Dolly Madison", by Desmond.

And for the high school reader there are such books as: "Date for Diane", "Betsy in Spite of Herself", by Lovelace, "Personality Plus", by Dale, "High Stepper", by Watson, "Future For Sale", by De Leeuw, "Yearling" in a beautiful new edition, by Rawlings, "Scrapper", by Sill-
